Application Notes:

Sign "re-facing": A sign permit is not required for the like-for-like replacement of a sign's display. Any physical alteration of the sign, including the addition of a digital component, is not considered a re-facing and requires an approved sign permit.

What constitutes a sign: A sign is any display of letters, numerals, symbols, or combinations of these elements, visible from a public right-of-way, for the purpose of making anything known. Certain things, such as directional signs, plaques, address numbers, flags, etc. are not considered signs as long as they bear no commercial message or connotation.

Measuring sign area: The area of a sign is determined by drawing a perimeter around the entire display, along with any material or color which is integral to the display or which is used to differentiate the display from the background.

Allowable signage: Refer to individual zoning district and/or overlay regulations for maximum allowable signage and placement requirements, as well as to Sec. 70-646 – 649 and Sec. 70-696 – 70-701 of the Zoning Ordinance. To exceed the maximum signage allowance in a zoning district, applicants may apply for a special use permit (SUP) and go through the public hearing process to seek approval from the Board of Supervisors.

Building permits: For the vast majority of signs, a building permit is also required from the Orange County Building Department. The applicant should confirm with the Building Department directly as they have their own application requirements, procedures, and fees.

VDOT permits: Off-site advertising signs on primary highways (i.e. Route 20, Route 15, Route 3, US 522, and US 33) may require permits from VDOT. Applicants should start by contacting VDOT's Outdoor Advertising Division at (804) 786-0654 or via email at outdooradvertisingrenewals@vdot.virginia.gov.
